Don't know where to start regarding fishing—the rains of last week spoiled the fresh water fishing—the bayous and rivers were bad everywhere. However, a few green trout and perch were caught. Luke Elliott and son Chip caught a few fish while over from Baton Rouge for the week end.

Speckles out at the keys and elsewhere have really been striking the past week and big ones.

Perre Quintini and Carl Bander caught 65 one day this week.

Alden Mauffray, Joe Kern and August Rauter got some nice ones, last Tuesday.

Joe Glover was over Sunday, but too much Mother's Day kept him from fishing.

Regarding soft crabs, up until Tuesday according to John Damborino, etc, they were not giving.

Tuesday night, Nolan Ladner and son, Nodie, caught 91. Nolan is an old timer and knows his stuff. I saw them.

The cool weather of the past few days slowed down the crabs. But they are back again.

The Lang family also caught some soft shell crabs the other night.

There were plenty of lights out last night, but didn't get the results.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Haas had as their guests from Wednesday through Saturday, Captain and Mrs. George Cohen and son, Gary, of New York, stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C. During Mr. Haas' tour of duty in the U. S. Army he and Capt. Cohen were stationed together at Fort Jackson. While here the Cohens enjoyed a tour of the French Quarter in New Orleans and visited along the Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mayer received a long distance call from their daughter, Nicole, Tuesday. She told them she would arrive here July 1st for a two months visit. Nicole, who makes her home in Brussels, Belgium, will make the trip, which is her first to this country, by jet Airliner.

The Warrior And The Slave Girl To Be At A&G Theatre, May 15th

"The Warrior and the Slave Girl" is the screen's mightiest and most spectacular of all time—Paramount's dramatic thunderbolt. "The Country Girl," which arrives Sunday at the Legion Theatre, Gulfport, starring Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly and William Holden, this powerful and absorbing motion picture is a triumph for each of them—especially for Miss Kelly who won an Academy Award for Best Actress as a result of her portrayal of the title role.

Bing as the has-been actor who rises to the top again, established him as one of the top dramatic actors in Hollywood, and William Holden has never been more powerful than as the director who believes in him and gives him his big chance, but falls in love with his wife, complicating things enormously.

If you've seen "The Country Girl" before, you will surely want to see it again; if you miss it, by all means see it now.

The Wind Cannot Read At The Star Theatre Sunday And Monday

A depth of tenderness never before experienced in a love story is found in the Betty E. Box Ralph Thomas presentation, "The Wind Cannot Read," A Twentieth Century-Fox release, opening Sunday and Monday at the Star Theatre, starring Dirk Bogarde and Yoko Tani.

Love between the races is a subject seldom portrayed on the screen for not only is it a touchy, controversial problem, but also it requires great delicacy and sensitivity to come across to diverse audiences throughout the world. Those screen romances between an oriental and a caucasian which come to mind most readily are "Love Is A Many Splendored Thing," wherein William Holden wooed and lost Jennifer Jones as a Eurasian, and in "Sayonara," in which both Marlon Brando and Red Buttons married Japanese girls.

Now from England comes "The Wind Cannot Read," which Twentieth Century-Fox is releasing here. It is based on the novel by Richard Mason of "The World of Suzie Wong" fame and it tells of a British officer in World War II who falls in love with his Japanese instructress in Delhi, Burma. Their marriage is an idyllic one but only for a short period as the war and fate step in to separate them.

Flounders are also here—John Damborino tried them the other night and had an unusual experience. He said he saw SOME THING in the water—not a fish, about 3 feet long pass him; the thing was really moving and so was John. It was probably an otter or a Neutra, according to the description.

Henry Carver has been getting some nice frogs of late. He really loves to go after them.

Haven't heard from our old buddies, Chester Ford, Judge Vio, Joe diBenedetto, etc. regard fishing up Jordan River for crabs and speckles?

IN LOVING MEMORY OF ALBERT ANTHONY "TONY" CREEL

Died May 9, 1955
Daddy Dear we miss you more with each passing year
And we long for the days gone by when you were here
We often recall the precious memories you left behind
Of a loving Daddy who was so sweet and kind
And as I say my prayers at night to Our Father in Heaven above
I ask Him to tell you how we miss you and to tell you of our love.
Your letters and picture and memories are mine to treasure and hold
Till God will call us to be with you in His Eternal Fold.
Sadly missed by your family and daughter Clare.
